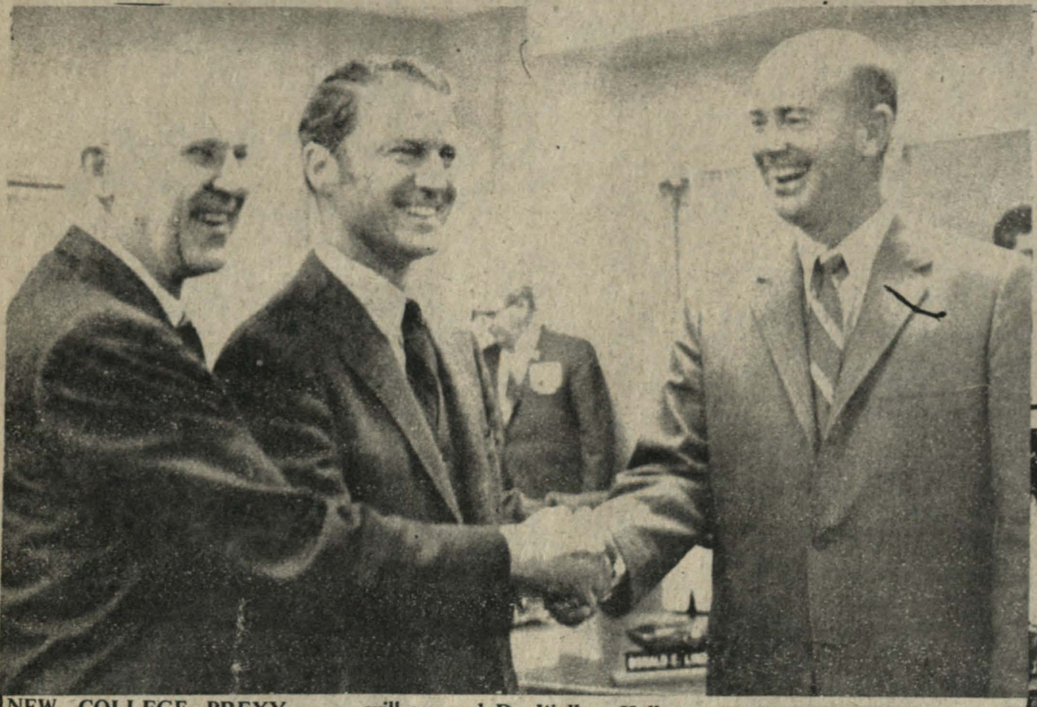
HAPPY
New Year



NEW COLLEGE PREXY—James P. Hardy (right) was named president of West Valley College last Thursday. He will succeed Dr. Wallace Hall (left) on July 31 when Dr. Hall, the first president of West Valley, retires. Joining in the congratulations is Edward Panelli (center), president of the college governing board.

GAVEL EXCHANGE—Dean Chamberlin, who was named mayor for the next year by his fellow councilmen accepts the gavel of office from retiring Mayor Homer Hyde. Hyde did not seek reelection to the City Council in the recent municipal election.

THIS ISSUE OF THE Campbell Press, the last for 1970, is devoted mainly to a pictorial review of the year. We have attempted to touch on the highlights of the past 12 months by publishing photos that have appeared in the past 51 issues.

Obviously there is not space enough to give a complete picture of all the noteworthy events that have occurred and just as obviously different people have different ideas on what is "noteworthy".

We have done this pictorial review bit for many years but we never cease to be amazed at the activities that have taken place in a mere span of 12 months in just one community.

And trying to choose the highlights to appear in one issue from the hundreds that have been published is quite a task.

But it is still sort of fun.

ONE OF THE MOST INteresting phases of this research is to follow the developments of one event from the beginning to its culmination.

For example, a picture and story that makes its first appearance in January sometimes continues to make news in subsequent issues throughout the rest of the year.

Sort of like a serial, you might say.

A case in point would be the rezoning issue affecting the Winchester Drive-in Theater.

The issue made its first appearance of the year in the first issue published in January.

And it continued to make front page copy periodically for the next 11 months, concluding with the first referendum in the city's history held on Dec. 8 when the City Council decision was upheld by the voters.

-0-

SOME BIG STORIES were just one-shot jobs... Others covered a brief period of time but were exciting while they lasted.

Take the case of Campbell's Little League team as an example.

Called the "Cardiac Kids" because of the way they drove their adult supporters up the wall in winning the close ones in their drive to the world series, the Campbell team brought nationwide notice to our community.

Starting in July when the Campbell all-stars won the district championship, the little guys from Campbell were "front page" every week all through August as they moved up the ladder to the ultimate goal, Williamsport, Pa., and the Little League world series.

Campbell's team lost the world championship by a 2-0 score to Wayne, New Jersey.

The locals were champions of their district, section, division and region (west) and were in the finals of the world series by winning their first two games in that epic event.

Before 40,000 people and on nationwide TV, Campbell bowed 2-0 in the big one. But they were truly champions, as far as this community was concerned.

And were treated as such on their return home.

Few will forget the spontaneous "welcome home champs" celebration that took place in Campbell when the young warriors returned.

So the Little League story we consider was the "number one" for the year, as far as Campbell is concerned.

And we think most of you will agree.

-0-

SOME STORIES THAT began in 1970 will be carried over into 1971 with the outcome still in doubt as the curtain comes down on 1970.

The Campbell Union School District hassle is the most outstanding example in that category.

In October, the school board demoted Neal Royer from superintendent to principal. Royer, who had been a teacher, vice-principal, principal, and assistant superintendent before becoming superintendent in 1964, had three years to go on his second four-year contract as superintendent when the axe fell.

The demotion action, coupled with a highly-controversial report from the Citizens Advisory Finance Committee which the majority of the board ignored for the most part, set the stage for a recall movement against three board members.

The year ends with the community badly divided on the issue and whether the breach will be healed in 1971 remains unanswered.

-0-

ON THE FRONT PAGE of this final issue of the year, we have used both pictures and headlines to emphasize the events of the community.

In some cases, you will agree we are sure, that the headlines do the job almost as well as the pictures.

For example, construction is well under way for Campbell's long-awaited city hall... And the city's new fire station was completed and dedicated early in the year.

The Council ruled that White Oaks Road should stay open and Jim Hardy succeeded Dr. Wallace Hall as West Valley College president. Dr. Hall was the first president of the college.

Dean Chamberlin succeeded Homer Hyde as mayor of the city. Homer did not run for reelection as councilman and Bill Podgorsek was elected in his place.

The Rincon pedestrian overpass was completed.

There are many other notable events that should have spots in this issue and we have tried to record them on the inside pages.

But, holy mackerel, we couldn't put 'em all in.

There wasn't room.

-0-

DURING THE YEAR, A long-time aide on The Press, Fran Clever, left the staff to go with her husband, Chet, into the operation of a motel in El Cerrito.

She was succeeded by Sally Howe, who is no stranger either to the community or to the readers of The Press.

Fran, of course, like all of us who have once been exposed to the organized confusion of a newspaper, is still keeping in touch with the goings-on of this newspaper and the community by reading this sheet from cover to cover.

We have a sneaking hunch that she may be reading The Press even more closely now than when she was on the desk at our joint.

From time to time we get comments from her that indicate that fact.

Her most recent note concerning a recent item in this column illustrates what we mean:

"Dear Editor,

A sad commentary on your "Out on a Limb" column of Dec. 16, 1970, regarding the "report that as many as 700 patients may have moved from the Santa Clara Valley during 1969 due to a combination of environmental hazards, air pollution being the most significant cause."

In 1919 my mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. James L. Ruhlen, moved to Santa Clara Valley on the advice of their family doctor in Mississippi. Mrs. Ruhlen was suffering from tuberculosis at the time, and the doctor's advice was to move to California, preferably Santa Clara County, where the pure air would enable Mrs. Ruhlen to more effectively combat the ravages of the disease and enable her possibly to live six months.

Mrs. Ruhlen lived for nearly six years before death overtook her, some of them relatively free from TB, and some spent in one of the famous Los Gatos sanatoriums.

And now lung patients are being advised to move from the area because of the smog. Fifty years of progress?

SO ON THAT NOTE, WE end our meanderings for the year 1970.

AND ..... a Happy New Year to all of you, from all of us.

Planners split over election of chairman

For the first time in the 16-year history of this city, a chairman of the Planning Commission has been selected by a split vote of the members of the Commission.

A badly divided Commission by a 3 - 2 vote (two abstaining) last week, approved the reelection of Merrill Grim as chairman and Dale Scott as vice-chairman for the next year.

The unusual action was taken on the motion made by Jack Healey and seconded by Frank Klein, after Grim, who was presiding, ruled out the nomination of Scott for chairman by Don Hebard because there was no second to it.

Both Scott and Grim abstained from voting on Healey's motion. Ed Pack, Healey and Klein voted for it with Norm Paul and Don Hebard opposed.

Commissioner Hebard charged that Healey and Klein were acting in retaliation because Scott supported the City Council in the recent referendum battle in which Healey and Klein vigorously opposed the Council.

Healey and Klein also made local history at a Planning Commission meeting earlier in the year, when Vice-Chairman Scott was presiding. They staged a walkout from that meeting because they opposed Scott's ruling on a question before the body.

Prior to the flare-up on the selection of chairman, the Commission approved the plans for a Shell Oil service station at Campbell Ave. and Bascom and also plans for an office and shop building for West Valley Construction at 580 McGlincey Lane.

Leo Freschi was granted an extension of time for two warehouses planned at 141 and 173 Sunny Oaks. The tentative subdivision map for Tanner Construction on Dell Ave. was approved.

SLATED FOR CHAIRMAN--Homer H. Hyde, a member of the San Francisco Regional Water Quality Control Board since May, 1969, has been nominated for the post of chairman of that nine-member body.

Hyde, general manager of the Campbell Water Co., and former mayor of Campbell, did not seek reelection in the last city election. A life-long resident of Campbell and a graduate of Stanford, Hyde was a long-time member of the Campbell Planning Commission before becoming a councilman in 1965.

ASK FOR WRITTEN STATEMENT

Two school trustees make charges against board majority

Two trustees of the Campbell Union School District, Jim Gilliland and Judy Ruscigno, who constitute the minority on the strife-torn district board, this week challenged the three-member majority to produce written charges for their action in demoting Neal Royer, district superintendent, on Oct. 8 or resign.

The trustees submit that 11 weeks have elapsed since the three trustees, Richard MacQuiddy, Ralph Steinberg and Mrs. Eleanor Graham-Armstrong, voted for Royer's demotion to principal but that they have not yet announced publicly that they have presented written charges and substantiating evidence as requested by Royer.

Gilliland and Mrs. Ruscigno also maintain that the three trustees have apparently refused to refute or correct false information released by the head of the teacher's union on their behalf which specified that written charges had been submitted to Royer.

Gilliland and Mrs. Ruscigno submit that, if the three trustees continue to refuse to tell the public the truth, "we shall ask them to resign."

The two minority members of the board also charge that much of the trouble in the district arose from the closed door salary negotiation meetings with members of teacher groups when such sessions should have been held only for the purpose of meeting and conferring and exchanging information.

The minority trustees also indicated that they plan to ask the newly-elected state attorney general, Evelle Younger, to investigate the district situation and have specified 14 points involving district financial actions and other matters which they think should be investigated.

TOP PEOPLE AT HIBERNIA--Fabian Collins (left above) has been appointed assistant vice-president and manager of The Hibernia Bank's new Campbell office and Mrs. Barbara G. Lococo (right) has been named assistant manager. The appointments have been announced by Martin J. O'Dea, Hibernia president. Ray Tambellini will be supervisor of the loan operations at the new branch. The three officers will supervise a staff of 10.

The Campbell office, located in the Kirkwood Plaza Center (1550 W. Campbell Ave.,) will begin operations on Monday, Jan. 4, the first business day of the new year, with a week-long open house celebration. There will be refreshments and gifts for visitors and 112 prizes will be awarded from the Hibernia Treasure Chest, one for every year of Hibernia's history. Headquartered in San Francisco, Hibernia is the 13th largest bank in California with 14 branches in the Bay Area and Peninsula.

Collins, the new Campbell manager, has been with Hibernia for 41 years and opened the San Jose branch in 1952. Mrs. Lococo joined Hibernia 26 years ago in San Francisco and was named head teller of the San Jose branch in 1952 and operations and loan officer in 1957. Tambellini joined Hibernia in 1968 as loan officer and prior to joining Hibernia was associated with Bank of America for 18 years.

CETA installs 1971 officers

At a special installation occasion at Renzo's Restaurant on Dec. 14, the Campbell Elementary Teachers Association installed new officers for the following year.

Herb Wadley, was installed as president; Bill Scheide, vice-president; Marian Green, secretary; Hugh Bonds, treasurer; Betty Stoops, primary grade level representative; Marty Messinger, intermediate grade level representative; Chuck Allred, junior high grade level representative; Rolf Monroe, central office representative; Ralph Dill, administrative representative and Dick Neher, bay section representative.

Herb Wadley, president of CETA lauded Bob Persky, past-president of CETA and new executive director for Cupertino Education Association for his dedication and service. Other leaders of the teacher association received certificates for their service to CETA.

In addressing the leaders of the Campbell Elementary Teachers Association, Herb Wadley stated, "We are teacher advocates, advocates for the best education for the children of our schools.

"Teachers no longer can be seen and not heard; they need to be recognized as the professionals they are."

Wadley also elaborated on the program CETA will embark upon this next year.

NEW BANK IN PRUNEYARD—Crocker-Citizens National Bank's proposed PruneYard office in Campbell will follow the early California architectural style of the shopping center. In this artist's conception, the drive-up window can be seen at right under the trellis-like overhang and the walk-up window can be seen at left under the Spanish-style roof. The office, first in Campbell for the bank, should open for business early in 1971.

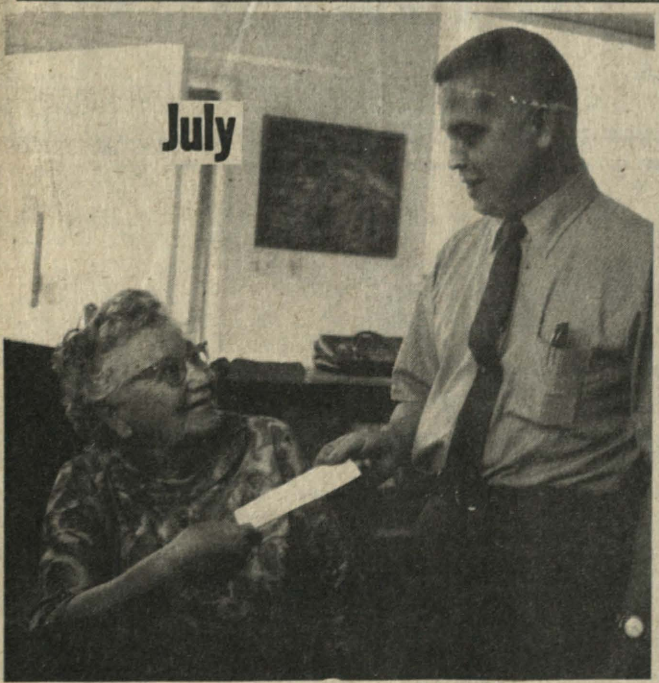
Norm Paul, who carried the petition on the two-block long street, reports that of the approximate 50 registered voters on the street, 39 have signed the petitions, or approximately 72%.



THANK YOU—Mrs. Irma Reese, Senior Action Center director, receives a $290 check from Norman Scott, Rotary Club of Campbell president, which will be used to remodel a garage to be used for a Consumers Exchange for the seniors. The money derived from the exchange will be used to supplement their income. The exchange will be remodeled by the SeaBees Mobile Construction Battalion under the direction of Lt. Commander Donald Sifferman. It is expected the exchange will be open for business about September 1.

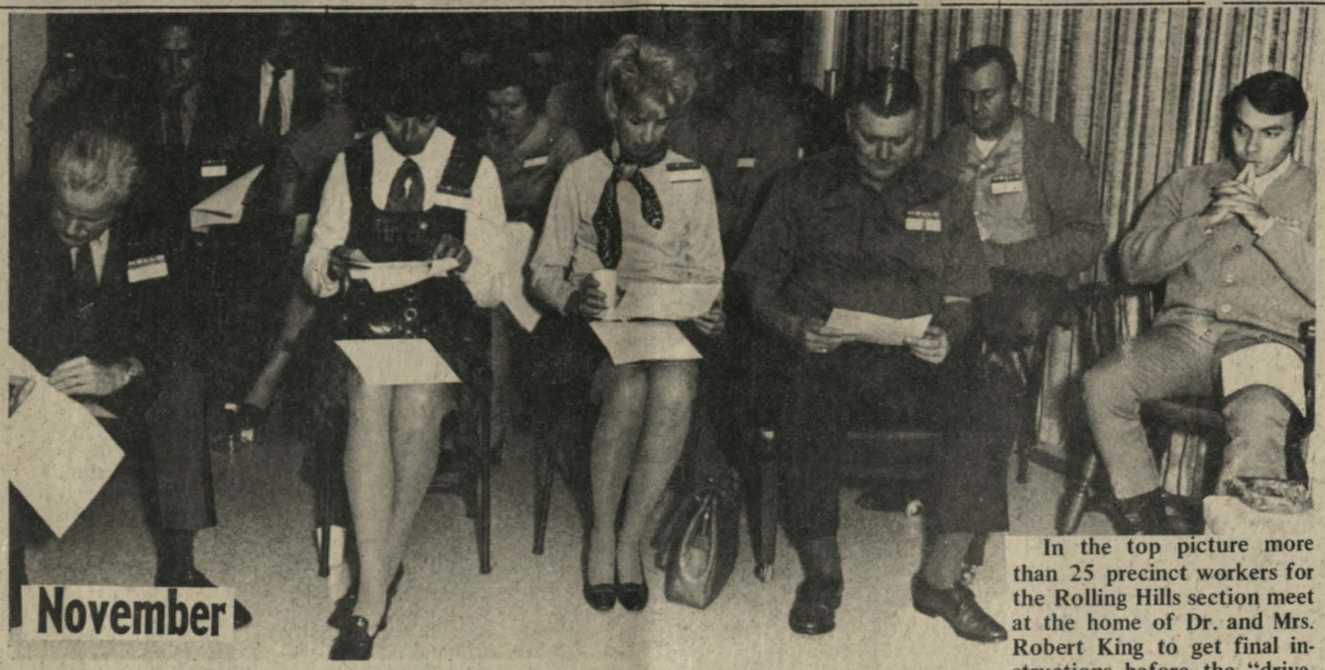
OATH OF OFFICE---On Tuesday, April 21, one week from the municipal election, after the votes in that election had been officially certified, those elected in the city election were duly sworn into office.

However, before City Clerk Dorothy Trevethan could administer the oath of office to the newly-elected officials, she, herself, had to be sworn in for her fifth four-year term by City Attorney Joe Bonacina (first photo on the left).



In the top picture more than 25 precinct workers for the Rolling Hills section meet at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Robert King to get final instructions before the "drive-for-names" begins.

Recall action

FIRST TO SIGN--Mrs. Jean West, of 91 Carlyn Ave., (on the left) becomes the first signer of the recall petition against Mrs. Eleanor Graham-Armstrong and Ralph Steinberg, trustees of the Campbell Union (elementary) School District as the drive to obtain 7,000 signatures got under way this week. Checking the time of the signature is Jim Rogers, of 3407 Cadillac Dr., Rosemary precinct chairman.

PHARMACY PHACTS

By Allan Blaine

In 1934, the odds against having quintuplets were about sixty-five million to one. The chance is now much greater, due to the increased usage of fertility drugs.

* *

According to a well-known pharmacologist, many drugs are ineffective because the body contains DDT and other pesticides from fruits and vegetables.

* *

Signs of the amphetamine user: aggressive behavior, giggling, silliness, rapid speech, confused thinking, no appetite, extreme fatigue, dry mouth, and shakiness.

* *

According to a noted veterinarian, cats do NOT cause leukemia, even though they are hosts for the cancer virus linked with leukemia in people.

* *

Cancer is so named because the ancient Greek physician Galen likened the appearance of the disease to the zodiac sign of the crab.

ILLEGAL MOTION

Dear Mr. Vierhus,

Just a note to wish you a Merry Christmas! You can plan on hearing from me again in the New Year!

Because this is the season of good will and forgiving— please forgive me for stepping on a few toes, but I must get this matter straight immediately.

In regards to Mrs. Ruscigno's motion (quote from Campbell Press, Dec. 16, 1970) "that all the employees should vote in a secret ballot as to whether the WVFT had abused its privilege" in using the "Pony Express" for its newsletters and if that privilege should be rescinded.

Mrs. Ruscigno (allegedly an authority on school board procedures) GOOFED!!

According to the California School Employer-Employee Relations Act of 1965 (commonly known as the Winton Act, Section 13082 RIGHTS OF PUBLIC SCHOOL EMPLOYEES: (excerpt pertaining to this issue) "Except as otherwise provided by the Legislature, public school employees shall have the right to form, join and participate in the activities of employee organizations of their own choosing for the purpose of representation on all matters of employer-employee relations."

Also Section 13086 INTERFERENCE WITH INDIVIDUAL EMPLOYEE'S RIGHTS PROHIBITED. "Public school employers and employee organizations shall not interfere with, intimidate, restrain, coerce or discriminate against public school employees because of their exercise of their rights under Section 13082."

This is the state policy which coincides with Campbell Union School District Board Policy # 4161 as to the rights of recognized employee organizations to use this method of communication.

Since the WVFT is authorized to use the "Pony Express" by both the Winton Act and Board Policy, it then follows that the motion comes under the jurisdiction of the NEWLY REVISED EDITION 1970, ROBERT'S RULES OF ORDER, CHAPT. 8, Sect. 23, pp. 214, 215: "It is the right of every member who notices a breach of the rules to insist on their enforcement.----- when a motion is in violation of national, state, or local law, the bylaws (or constitution) or rules of the organization, or the fundamental principles of parliamentary law, the action proposed by the motion would be null and void even if the motion were adopted."

This means that the motion was illegal and is therefore "null and void". I do feel that Mrs. Ruscigno should have researched a bit more before making a motion which is illegal!

Happy New Year!
Dorothy Mitchell

TAX INFORMATION PLAN

IF YOU ARE A TAXPAYER you may be eligible to save 16% or more on hundreds of drug store items.

Our special service can help you do it.

Have you taken all the deductions for family health needs allowed you under Federal Income Tax law? Most people don't . . . simply because receipts get lost or misplaced and very few people know the wide variety of pharmacy items which are deductible.

BUT NOW our pharmacy has a free Tax Information Plan which could mean dollar savings at income tax time. Remember, a taxpayer whose medical expense deductions exceed one per cent of his income gets back 16 cents on every $1.00 spent on health needs.

Our customers now receive a monthly and annual total of all tax deductible purchases. This very same information is important in substantiating expenses under a medical insurance program.

Most people remember that health supplies ordered by a physician qualify, but below there is a list of some of the thousands of products which are also deductible.

Remember, the Federal Government wants you to pay only what you actually owe . . . no more . . . no less. Use TIP for accuracy and to assure yourself of the maximum dollar benefit allowed by law.

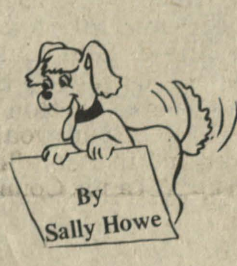
Bringing up fido



New Year's resolutions from Fido:

1. I shall not bark any morning before 7:30, and on Sundays my voice shall be still until 9 a.m.

2. I shall not sleep in the same spot on the couch, as my master may notice it's getting worn there.

3. I shall not jump on the mistress when she is wearing stockings as the price of hosiery is far greater than the price of dog food.

4. I shall try to keep my toys out of the livingroom, especially the chewed rawhide ones.

5. I shall stop banging my dish on the floor to indicate my displeasure with the amount and quality of dinner.

6. I shall also try to remember that my mistress gets very angry when I put my front feet in the water dish and dig it out.

7. I shall avoid prancing in the mud puddles, running through weeds and skidding on the clean waxed floor when it's not yet dry.

8. I shall also try to remember that sofa pillows really don't taste good anyway (foam rubber has no flavor!).

9. I shall not go out of the yard without my family and not talk to strange dogs

10. When I go to the vet, I will not soil his table, nor bite his hand.

11. I will not chew my leash nor the corner of the dinningroom table.

12. I shall try to leave the house whenever I need to and not wait until the last minute.

13. I shall wear my license at all times and remind my mistress to have it renewed (I really think that someone mails her a reminder).

14. I shall be gentle with babies, playful with toddlers and docile around the elderly.

In 1971, I'll be a model dog!

"When that other bank forgets your name, remember mine: Fabian Collins."

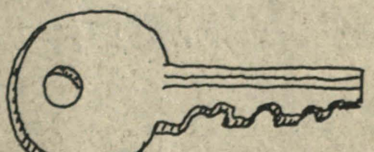
"I'm the manager of Hibernia's new Campbell branch and I'd like to introduce you to the people and services that make Hibernia different from other banks. ☐ Things like low-cost auto loans. ☐ Free checking accounts with a minimum balance of only $250. ☐ Plus genuinely friendly tellers who make a real effort to remember your name, not just your account number."

REFRESHMENTS Something for everybody. Coffee. Cookies, Cake, and other goodies.

A TREASURE CHEST WITH 112 GRAND SURPRISES

If your Lucky Key opens the Treasure Chest, you receive 1 of 112 special prizes (a prize for every year of Hibernia's history). Prizes are merchandise worth anywhere from $4 to $15.

If you didn't receive a key, pardon our oversight. We'll have a special supply of keys on hand just for people like you.



Follow the dotted line to the treasure—Hibernia's new Campbell office is easy to reach. Just head for the Kirkwood Plaza Shopping Center, and you'll find us just a few doors from Mayfair Market.

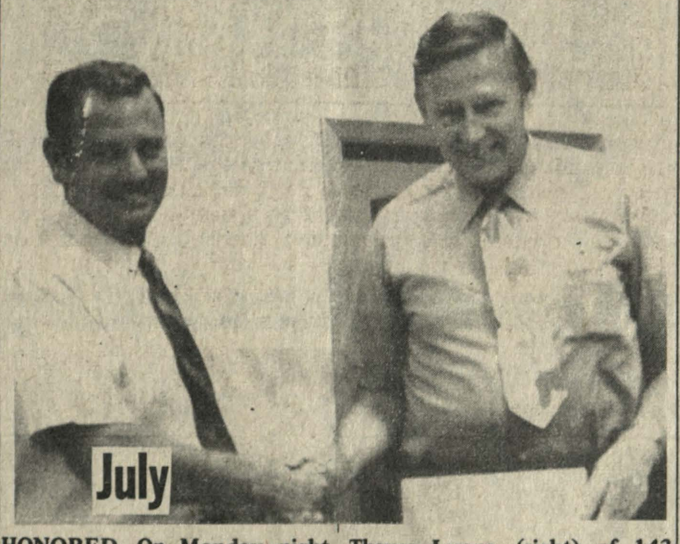
OPENS APRIL 1--"WHEEL-AWAY", one of Campbell's most modern businesses, featuring the most complete cycle center in northern California, plans to be open at its new location, W. Hamilton at Harrison on April 1.

Since construction has been under way, "Wheel-Away", formerly located on Winchester Blvd., has been operating from the Campbell Cycle Center, Campbell Ave. at San Tomas. The architect's sketch (above) pictures the modern facility that is soon to open.



July

HONORED—On Monday night, Thayer Lyons, (right) of 143 Carlyn Ave., who has served on the Planning Commission since 1958, was honored for his service to his city by a resolution adopted by the Planning Commission. The resolution was presented to Lyons by Merrill Grim, (left) chairman of the Commission.

Lyons, whose service of 12 years on the Commission is a record for this city, did not seek reappointment. His term expires on August 1 and Monday night was his last meeting as a Commissioner.

November

Best Insurance Against Emergency is Good Car Care

Keeping all of your car's components in good working order is your best insurance against emergencies caused by equipment failure. But should critical equipment fail, due to neglect or unforeseen circumstances, it's vital to know how to react, says the National Safety Council.

Four situations that could confront a driver and prove disastrous are:

- Stuck gas pedal
- Brake failure
- Blowout
- Fire in engine compartment

National Safety Council Cites What Is Most Likely to Happen Unexpectedly, Offers Advice on How to Cope with the Problem...

If your gas pedal becomes stuck to the floor board, simply turn off the ignition, put the car in neutral and stop. If your car has power steering and brakes, these components will work harder so be prepared for the occurrence.

IF BRAKES FAIL

Should you step on the brake and the pedal sinks to the floor, try pumping to build up pressure. If there is no pressure, coast in gear and use the hand brake. For quicker stops, shift into a lower forward gear.

If all of these precautions fail, look for something to sideswipe such as a guard rail, snow bank or parked car. Use your horn and lights to warn other motorists or pedestrians that you are out of control.

HOW TO HANDLE A BLOWOUT

If you experience a blowout, keep a firm grip on the steering wheel and avoid slamming on the brakes or you risk losing control of the car. A smooth pumping of the brakes is recommended. Then pull off the road at the nearest safe spot.

HOW TO COPE WITH FIRE

Most engine compartment fires are caused by short circuits in the electrical system. Should you experience such a fire, immediately pull the jack handle out of the trunk, wrap protective cloth around it and rip loose any burning wires. Then, if you have a fire extinguisher, douse the burning area.

If you don't have a fire extinguisher, smother the burning wires with a coat or similar heavy article of clothing. NEVER USE WATER OR ATTEMPT TO GRAB THE WIRES WITH YOUR HANDS.

If the fire is beyond control, hurry as far away from the car as you can in case the gas tank explodes.

Approach of Bad Weather Calls for Tire Check

Condition of Treads, Maintenance Of Air Pressure Called Vitally Important Everywhere

With winter approaching motorists should check their tires and make sure their cars are prepared for the season's snow and icy conditions.

Snow tires on the rear wheels with plenty of tread or added studs give the best assurance of safety and improved car performance in cold regions of the country. For motorists in warmer climates, new tires with good tread should be sufficient.

Maintaining air pressure as recommended in the owner's manual remains vitally important everywhere. Also, it is important to remember that balding tires of any type increase the chances of skidding and cause a lack of steering and braking effectiveness.

In the Interest of Safety

Ross R. Ormsby, Chairman of the Tire Industry Safety Council, advises that a 2/32 inch or less tread depth in a tire is a sound guideline — in the interest of safety — for removing the tire from use.

New tires will aid motorists in winter weather because of their sufficient tread depth. However, for best results motorists should consider getting snow or "studded" tires. Tires equipped with studs give the best assurance of traction on ice and hard-packed snow.

What Tests Show

National Safety Council test results indicate that when glare ice conditions are present at 25 degrees F. snow tires provide 28 percent better starting traction than regular tires. Studded tires that have had 2,500 miles of bare pavement use demonstrated a 183 percent improvement in starting traction while new studded tires showed 218 percent improvement.

Tire industry testing also indicated that cars equipped with studded tires on all four wheels show braking distance improvements by 50 percent or more.

The Council warns that studs should only be installed in tires whose tread surface is "pinned" for studding. The studs should be installed only by a qualified tire dealer or at a service station.

The U.S. Department of Transportation recommends a tire have no more than 150 studs. Many foreign tires have up to 200 stud holes, but over-studding a tire can adversely influence its potential purpose for normal highway use.

When Install Studs

Studs should be installed only when the tires are new. Older tires acquire dirt and foreign matter in the tread and stud holes, causing new studs to be improperly seated. Also as tires wear, the depth of the stud hole becomes less and newly added studs would have too great a protusion. No stud should extend more than 2/32 of an inch from the tread.

For these reasons missing studs should not be replaced and tires should not be restudded after the original studs wear out.

It is equally important that studded tires are put on the same wheel each winter. When removed, they should be marked for wheel position and direction of rotation. If placed on a different wheel position the following winter the studs will develop abnormal wear patterns which can lessen the tire's ability to retain the stud in its tread surface.

Replacement studded tires on rear wheels should also be of the same size and construction as the conventional tire found on the front. Should all four wheels have studded tires they should all be of the same size and construction.

Check Inflation

Many states and provinces restrict the months in which studded tires may be used — generally they designated a specific date in October or November and run through the winter months until April or May.

He also cautioned against underinflation. Reducing the amount of pressure in a tire does not give it better traction as many motorists suspect, but actually gives less traction. Motorists were urged to maintain the air pressure recommended by the owner's manual and to observe the maximum air pressure and load limits noted on the tire's sidewall. The Council cautions that these are maximum figures on the sidewall — not recommended pressure or load ratings.

Tire manufacturers recommend that inflation be checked at least once a month.

People Who Don't Take Care, Make Work for Us

So Say the Men Who Man the Rigs That Tow Autos Out of Trouble, Adding Some Timely Advice

(Editor's Notes. Last year the AAA answered close to 80 million road service calls. Of that total almost 35 million were for "can't starts," the bulk of which were in winter cold or early spring rain. The writer accompanied one of the AAA road service drivers on his rounds in a major city. This is his report.

By CHARLES L. BARUCH

The temperature outside was 5° above zero but the greeting we received from the motorist was even icier.

"I've been waiting three hours for you. I missed my plane and will probably lose out on a $50,000 order," he snapped.

It was amazing to me that Paul, the emergency road service truck operator, went about his business of starting the man's car without retorting more than, "I'm sorry, sir. There were eight calls ahead of you. We're doing all we can."

It was the third day of a cold wave that stunned the city with temperatures ranging between 10° above and 10° below zero. Paul had been working between 12 and 16 hours a day on the AAA road service truck. He'd already lost count of the number of calls for starting help he serviced.

He had ruined one clutch on a truck, found sleep next to impossible and the steady diet of hastily gulped coffee and cold hamburgers had soured his stomach. His sympathy for the stranded drivers had long since vanished.

While accompanying Paul on his rounds, I had a chance to talk to him about the reasons this seemingly endless rush of calls for starting help occurred.

"Sure It's Cold"

He said, wearily, "Sure it's cold. But even in this weather most people don't have starting trouble. It's the people who don't take care of their cars. It's the people who come into the station in September and who you ask 'How about a tune-up?' and they answer, 'Maybe later.' They have the trouble.

"They'll spend more time waiting for a road service truck than it would take to do a thorough tune-up in the first place. Some of them lose more money in missed wages than a tune-up would cost. But the ironic thing is they'll end up getting the tune-up after they've had trouble."

I asked Paul, "You talk about tune-up but most of them complain about a run-down battery."

He smiled and answered, "Anybody's going to run down his battery trying to start an engine that's in lousy shape. Sure a strong battery is important. But the other parts of the engine have to be in top shape to start in this weather."

Three Hours Late

We stopped at the next house. A young housewife and her two children were shivering in the garage, waiting for us.

"What's the matter, ma'am?" Paul asked.

"My car won't start. My battery is dead. And the kids are three hours late for school," she said. The kids did not look as anguished as their mother.

Paul connected the jumper cables from his truck to the engine. After a few sputters the car started.

"Bring it in for a tune-up when the weather breaks," Paul shouted to her.

She was already half way down the driveway and she didn't hear him.

"They seldom do," said Paul, glumly, as he prepared to answer his next call.

Like to Know . . . How Much Cash to Run Your Car?

How much does it cost you to operate your car?

It depends on where you live and how much mileage you accumulate during the year.

One of the nation's top management consulting firms, Runzheimer and Co., Inc. of Rochester, Wisconsin, figured out costs in 10 North American localities, especially for this paper.

Of the areas included in the study, motorists in El Paso spend the least or 7.11 cents per mile to run their cars. Conversely car owners in Halifax, Nova Scotia spend the most or 8.26 cents per mile.

Here's how Runzheimer rates the 10 geographically diverse areas.

COST

Basing Point	Fixed Per Day	Running Per Mile
San Francisco, Calif.	$3.93	4.25¢
Denver, Colo.	3.14	4.40
El Paso, Texas	3.11	4.00
Duluth, Minn.	3.35	4.30
Louisville, Ky.	3.13	4.20
Pittsburgh, Pa.	3.33	4.30
Chelsea, Mass.	3.57	3.90
Miami, Fla.	3.39	3.90
Calgary, Alberta	2.92	4.85
Halifax, Nova Scotia	3.16	5.10

Costs cited above are based on the 1970 Ford, Chevrolet, Plymouth, fullsize, 8 cylinder top line, 4 door hardtops equipped with standard accessories, radio, automatic transmission and power steering.

Per day costs include depreciation, license fees and taxes, sales and use taxes, and insurance premiums on comprehensive fire and theft, $100 deductible collision, $100/300M bodily injury and $25M property damage.

Per mile costs include gasoline, oil, normal preventive and repair maintenance, washing, greasing and tires.

Add a further depreciation allowance of one and one-half cents (1.5¢) per mile — but only on mileage over 1,500 monthly.

SEE TO AVOID

Motorists have to see danger to avoid it. Avoid "peephole" driving by completely clearing all windows of ice and snow before moving your car into traffic.

SIGNAL YOUR INTENT

On winter's icy roads, motorists should give signals of intention to turn sooner than they would under normal driving conditions.

Even more aggravating than starting trouble in your own driveway is a can't start away from home. Even though a road service man may be able to start your car, you have no assurance that trouble may not happen the next time you try to start. That is unless you get at and correct the source of your difficulty.

Best Way to Assure Winter Starts Every Time; Keep Engine in Shape

If you want to avoid those long waits for starting help on a cold or rainy day, Champion Spark Plug Company has some advice for you. And it's not move to a warm, dry climate.

The best way to make certain your car starts every time this winter is to put and keep your engine in shape.

Champion Spark Plug Company conducted surveys of hard starting experience in the U.S. and Canada and found that engine condition, rather than weather severity, influences starting ability.

Take the Province of Quebec and its sister Province of British Columbia. Quebec has severe winters. British Columbia has mild winters. Yet 19.5 percent of Quebec motorists had starting trouble while 32.2 of British Columbia's car owners experienced difficulty.

Why? Rate of tune-up purchase in Quebec was 43 percent while B.C.'s rate was only 23.4 percent.

A comparable picture developed in the U.S. Cold, blustery New England states had a 22.3 percent rate of starting failure against a 31.9 percent rate of tune-up purchase. The balmy-climed Pacific Coast states suffered a 25 percent rate of starting failure and a 21.3 percentage of tune-up purchases.

Like the economy, your engine is affected by the law of supply and demand. In foul weather, a sub-par engine demands more voltage to fire and the supply is generally lower.

More specifically, when the weather is cold or wet, the car's electrical system loses power. Aggravating the situation, the presence of worn ignition parts can "leak" voltage or "block" electrical flow, making greater demands on voltage available.

Further complicating the problem is the presence of worn spark plugs. These require more voltage than new plugs to fire.

The critical function of spark plugs in starting is is shown in the following statistics. Engine with newly-installed spark plugs account for only 12 percent of all starting failures. Plugs with 11,500 miles or more usage have 41 percent starting trouble, more than triple the rate of new plugs.

So, to decrease your chances of starting trouble this winter, get a tune-up.

There is no better insurance against winter-time starting trouble than an expert tune-up performed by a man with the right tools and diagnostic equipment. Champion recommends plugs be serviced every 5,000 miles along with minor engine work and a major tune-up be performed every 10,000 miles.

TAKE TIME TO STOP

Plan every trip so you won't have to force yourself or your car. Take time to stop, stretch, rest, have a snack. You'll be more alert, more relaxed, and more comfortable — and safer.

Your Car's Condition is Everybody's Business

Improved Maintenance Now a Vital Concern To the Entire Community

The condition your car is in is everybody's business.

Car Care is no longer just a personal whim for your own convenience but affects every other person in your community.

With every conscientious person in this country vitally concerned with the environment, the engine has undergone close scrutiny. It has become fashionable to criticize the automobile maker, casting complete blame for air pollution on his shoulders.

Yet, car makers have already reduced pollution 65% to 80% since 1960. And in the next few years harmful pollutants will be reduced to nearly zero, according to top automotive officials like General Motors' Ed Cole.

But without conscientious maintenance on the part of the owner, no system can function properly. Studies show that an untuned engine, for example, spews as much as four times the rate of harmful emissions as a tuned one.

The motorist's responsibility to his fellow man extends even beyond this vital area.

Keeping safety components in good condition is a sign of responsibility to your fellow motorists as well as yourself and your family. That includes tires, brakes, visibility items and a number of related systems.

Maintaining your car so that there is a minimum risk of breakdown on a crowded expressway or street is another indication of concern. A sub-par engine that sputters to a stop on a crowded thoroughfare can cause inconvenience to thousands of other drivers.

By keeping all of your car's components in good condition, particularly in the months of foul weather ahead, you make an important contribution to the health and safety of your country.

And you can easily live up to your responsibility by taking your car into your favorite service outlet for its expert assistance.

As the poet John Donne wrote, "No man is an islande unto himself."

To make this "islande" more habitable, care for your car.

A tune-up improves gasoline mileage, and engine performance.

Planning a trip? Consult your local service station for the best routes.

Check your windshield wipers and cleaning fluid often.

Its a good idea to check all around your car before starting. Make sure that there are no glass or obstructions around your tires.

During 10,000 miles of driving, spark plugs fire over 15,000,000 times.

Avoid Pushing Stalled Car; Depend On Jumper Cable to Transfer Power

Back in the good old days, whenever they were, the wise motorist always carried a rope in his car — especially if it was subject to fits of stubbornness.

More than one driver, cloaked in duster and goggles, has been seen tieing the rope to his front bumper so he could haul the car out of the mire.

Later, man learned about pushing one car with another — mainly to get the faulty one started. But car makers recommend against pushing or towing by novices today.

In addition to the distinct danger of damaging your automatic transmission, it is altogether possible that your particular car cannot be started with a push.

So today's emergency measure, other than the nearest telephone, is jumper cables—long cables that permit you to transfer current from the strong battery in one car to the dead one in your own.

Jumper cables cost only a few dollars in your auto store. They are good insurance — if you know how to use them.

Here's how it's done, but learn to hook up correctly.

First, be sure you have good ones. A heavy current load might melt inferior cables before they can get your car started.

Second, double check with your service dealer to be certain you know how to hook them up correctly. This isn't hard to do, but on some cars you can ruin your charging circuit if the cables are reversed.

So the thing to do is take notes when you are discussing the matter with your service man. Write an instruction sheet and attach it to the cables or slip it into the bag they come in.

It isn't a bad idea to go through the procedure in your driveway at home. Then you'll feel perfectly confident to give your rescuer directions when he offers his help.

Maintenance Hints For Windows, Windshields

The following suggestions for auto glass maintenance are offered by Karl K. Alberti, auto glass replacement manager for Libbey-Owens-Ford.

• KEEP WINDOWS CLEAN. A dirty windshield, rear window or sidelights impairs vision. Dirt accumulation may form a grit that scratches the glass when it is wiped.

• KNOCK ICE OFF WIPER BLADES in winter, to maintain the efficiency of the wipers.

• REPLACE BROKEN OR CRACKED windshields immediately. Clear, unobstructed vision is important at all times.

• DON'T USE GLASS AS A HANDLE to slam door. This undue stress may break the glass.

HERE'S HOW, SAY THE EXPERTS

Car Life, Human Life, Both Benefit from Motor Tune-Up

By STEPHEN NICELY
Auto Editor, Kansas City Star

It's the same old song they sing all the time.

"Get a tune-up. It's cheaper in the long run. It will pay for itself in gas saved. It will pay for itself in performance. It will pay for itself in a longer-lasting engine.

Those who sing the song are the ones who do the tuning-up and sell the spark plugs. It is what everyone expects them to say. Is it really true?

Disinterested third parties are not easy to find, but two experts from San Bernardino, Calif., say it is true — and they don't sell spark plugs or do tune-ups.

They are in the automotive pollution testing business, not for the industry but for the federal government. They say it is all true and they add a benefit of their own:

Tune-ups contribute to longer human life through cleaner exhaust gases.

* * *

John Q. Public Should Do Better

John Lorance and Jim Buxton, test engineers for Olson Laboratories, were in the Kansas City area several weeks installing more than $100,000 in testing equipment in an old garage.

"The purpose is to see how the exhaust emission control devices are operating in the hands of the consumer and how they hold up under maintenance programs the owners actually maintain," Lorance says.

"This is the first program sponsored by the federal government to see how these devices actually perform in the hands of the public."

Up to now, they said, the engines were tested by the car makers who follow a strict maintenance program. The cars meet the requirements, but does the public follow the same program?

"John Q. Public does not do too well most of the time," Buxton said. "He drives it . . . puts gas in. He usually doesn't perform preventive maintenance.

"If he keeps to the prescribed maintenance of the manufacturer, he will be in range. If he doesn't, he won't be anywhere close to the requirements. The emissions will be higher. Performance will suffer and so will gas mileage."

* * *

Modified Cars Start Hard

Engine changes to cut airborne garbage have made tune-up tolerances more critical, the two men said. Owners of the modified cars are more apt to find them hard to start and hard to stop — they just keep right on running after the ignition switch is shut off.

Other common complaints are loss of power and pinging on regular gas.

This doesn't have to be if the car is kept tuned, one of them said. The engines are running hotter with water thermostats up to 200 degrees. They are burning leaner mixtures of gasoline and the timing has been retarded to see that more of the gasoline is burned.

If the timing of the explosion and carburetor settings are not just so, then glowing hot spots develop in the combustion chamber and fire the gasoline at the wrong time without the assistance of the spark plug, which accounts for the engine running after the switch is shut off. It can also cause pinging, which is damaging to the engine.

* * *

New Rigors Shorten Plug Life

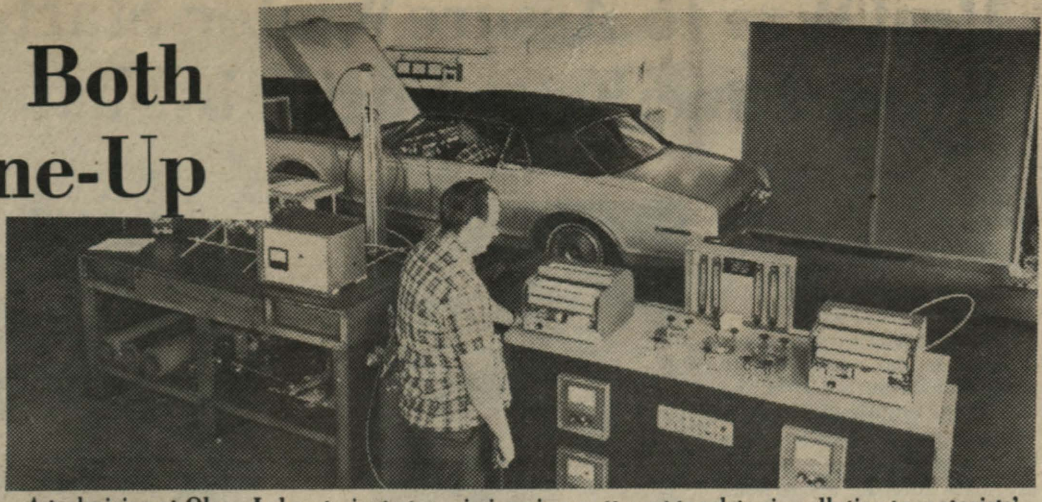
In the old days, the richer gasoline mixtures served to cool the combustion chambers and render an easier explosion, even if large quantities of unburned hydrocarbons were dumped into the air.

The new rigors inside the combustion chamber also serve to shorten the life of a spark plug. As one of the experts pointed out, one spark plug firing intermittently will double the harmful exhaust emissions of a standard V-8 engine.

Air filters and idle settings on the carburetor also are critical to economy, performance and clean exhaust, they said.

A dirty air cleaner element makes it more difficult for the engine to inhale and acts to choke the engine all the time it is running rather than only when it is cold.

* * *



A technician at Olson Laboratories tests emissions in an attempt to relate air pollution to motorists' maintenance habits. Use of new anti-pollution devices makes proper engine care even more vital for top performance and dependability.

Keeping Warm...

With winter on its way, better make sure your car heater is functioning properly.

Often passengers in the front seat are comfortable but those in the back seat are cold. You turn up the heat, but it doesn't seem to make it to the back. The hot gets hotter and the cold stay cold.

One reason for this may be a clutter under-seat. Generally, the heat flow is designed to travel under the front seat to the rear compartment. If there are rags, papers, tools and other things in the way the heat will be prevented from reaching the back.

SIGNAL LANE CHANGES

Motorists usually signal their intention to turn. But many forget they should also signal their intentions to change lanes. Every turn should be advertised in advance. And when changing lanes, first make sure no car is cruising along in your blind spot.

FilterChange Can Increase Life of Car

"Should I change oil filter when I change oil?"

Typically, the $4.00 filter doubles the cost of his oil change. Is it worth it? Or should he, as some car manufacturers suggest, change oil filter with every other oil change?

Readers Digest, in a report to consumers, answered the question this way:

> "To protect your engine and your warranty, changing the oil filter frequently is important. The filter removes the heavy grit and dust that your engine has sucked in; eventually it gets clogged and can take no more.
>
> If you change oil after 4,000 to 6,000 miles, it certainly pays to install a new filter each time. If you change more frequently you may want to replace the oil filter at each second oil change."

For the experienced car buff or mechanic the answer is simple: change filter whenever you change oil without question. Why? There are three reasons:

1. A filter holds a quart of oil that does not drain with the five quart crankcase. An oil change without a filter change is thus only an 80% change, and the new oil is immediately contaminated.

2. Car manufacturers' recommendations are for ideal conditions that seldom exist—sustained turnpike driving in dust-free regions with temperate climate. Stop-and-go short hop neighborhood driving is tough on engines since they never get hot enough.

Stop-and-go motorists should not only change oil filter at every oil change, they should also change oil more frequently. Warranties spell this all out under 'exceptions" but the average motorist is not reading the fine print.

3. Dirty oil really beats up an engine. Don't get careless because you can't see the wear like you can a dirty shirt. Here's how bad it is: a car maker some time ago tested engines over 15,000 miles, changing oil every 2,000 miles. One set of cars had oil filters, the other identical set had no oil filters. Results: filtered cars had 87% less main bearing wear; 93% less connecting rod bearing wear; and 84% less cylinder bore wear.

The responsible car owner can increase the life of his engine as much as 25% by changing oil and filter together.

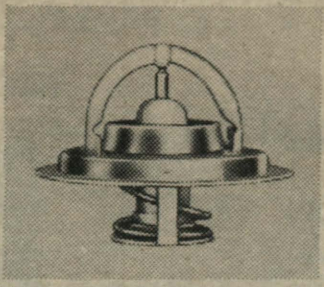
How's Thermostat Operating? Check Before Winter Arrives

If your car's engine is running hot, or if your automatic transmission seems to be sluggish—have your thermostat checked.

Thermostats open and close to regulate coolant flowing through the cooling system to maintain proper engine temperatures. Functioning correctly, thermostats should open to allow coolant to pass through the system when the coolant reaches the exact temperature level for which its engine was designed.

If the thermostat opens before the coolant reaches this desirable temperature, the engine will run too cool. This will result in excess wear on moving parts, accumulations of sludge in the crank case and decreased fuel economy, among other things.



The vital little gadget — the thermostat — that keeps engine temperatures at the correct operating level.

However, should the thermostat fail to open when the proper temperature is reached, the engine is subjected to overheating. With the thermostat closed, coolant flow is blocked off from the radiator. Until the stat opens, the coolant becomes hotter and hotter. When this occurs, the engine will deteriorate rapidly as metal parts are tortured by extreme temperatures.

In addition to costly damage done to metal parts, overheating also results in loss of engine power, increased oil consumption, abnormal combustion and pre-ignition.

And, because transmission fluid is cooled in the radiator, transmission failure becomes a serious possibility. A great percentage of all automatic transmission failures can be traced to engines running too hot!

It's a good idea to have your car's cooling system tuned up before cold weather sets in.

In addition to inspecting the operation of the thermostat, careful attention should be paid to radiator and heater hoses, hose clamps, fan belts, and safety pressure caps.

Should they fail, any of these key cooling components can lead to serious, and costly, engine troubles.

Safety Council Offers This Advice To Drivers Not Familiar with Snow

To the Minnesota or Manitoba motorist, a two-inch snowfall may be a common winter-time driving nuisance. When that same storm makes an infrequent appearance in places where winters are usually mild, a snarl of gigantic proportions usually results.

For those drivers who don't know how to handle their car in snowy weather and as a refresher to cold-country car owners, the National Safety Council offers these tips:

1. Test the road with careful acceleration when first starting out. If the wheels spin or you skid when braking reduce your speed.

2. Keep double the normal distance between you and the car ahead. Stopping distances may be as much as nine times greater than on a dry pavement.

3. When stopping, pump your brakes instead of jamming them.

4. Make sure your tires have plenty of tread. Snow tires and, in states where they are permitted, studded tires help stop cars safely and deter skidding.

Reinforced chains may be the answer where snow is infrequent enough to negate the reasons for purchasing winter tires.

Keep a Wary Eye On Non-Motorist

Motorists are not the only ones who use the streets and highways. Pedestrians often jaywalk, children hidden by parked cars dart into the street, cyclists sometimes ride as if they were in an empty field, and animals give little heed to traffic.

All such irresponsible behavior is aggravated during bad weather, when people become more impatient.

Keep your eyes moving to spot these potential emergencies. Don't depend on others to know the safety rules.

SLOWPOKE DANGEROUS

The slowpoke on the expressway is just as dangerous as the speeder. If traffic streams past you or you are leading a slow parade in your lane, speed up or get off the expressway. You are a hazard when you block traffic.

Radical Changes

Radical weather changes also affect the life and performance of an engine in other ways, Buxton said.

It can cause moisture to gather inside the engine while not running. The moisture combines with the oil to form acid and the acid eats at the metal. That's why it is better to drive a car 10 miles than two miles, Buxton said, because it gives the engine a chance to burn the moisture out.

"You take a car and don't maintain it, and it might go 100,000 miles," Buxton said. "I'll take care of mine — and drive it 150,000 miles."

STOP ME IF YOU'VE HEARD THIS . . .

Stopping a car on dry pavement at 20 miles per hour requires 17 feet of distance. At the same speed on glare ice, the distance required is 149 feet with regular tires and 120 feet with studded snow tires. Slow down on ice.

A TOUGH GRIND

Do your standard transmission gears grind on a cold winter morning? The likely cause is that your gear lubricant is too heavy for the temperature, especially when starting out. Have your favorite mechanic check the condition.

With winter on its way, better make sure your car heater is functioning properly.

Often passengers in the front seat are comfortable but those in the back seat are cold. You turn up the heat, but it doesn't seem to make it to the back. The hot gets hotter and the cold stay cold.

One reason for this may be a clutter under-seat. Generally, the heat flow is designed to travel under the front seat to the rear compartment. If there are rags, papers, tools and other things in the way the heat will be prevented from reaching the back.

PLEASE

Help stop pollution.

You can help.

A recent tune-up clinic conducted by engineering students at the University of Michigan found that on average, a tune-up will reduce a car's exhaust pollution by 55%.

So please. Take your car in for a tune-up.

You'll have a better, smoother running, more economical car.

And you'll breathe easier.
